Broadway Star Arrives To Act In U. Of U. Play

Edward Everett Horton, who will star in "White Sheep of the Family," on Kingsbury Hall stage, was scheduled to arrive in Salt Lake City Tuesday night.

The Broadway movie and television star will go into rehearsals with a cast that includes Marion Morris, Utah-born stage actress, and several local thespians.

Under direction of Robert Hyde Wilson, "White Sheep of the Family" will be presented nightly at 8:15 from Oct. 2 through 6. The drama is the first of the new season for the University of Utah Theater.

Fire Damages Home In S.L. County

A Salt Lake County home was badly damaged Monday at 2:30 p.m. by a fire which started amid paint cans used recently in redecorating the home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Donaldson, owners of the home at 2793 S. 2520 East, had been preparing for the homecoming of their son and daughter-in-law from the east.

Salt Lake County Fire Chief Franklin P. Jones said the fire apparently started by spontaneous combustion in paint cans stored in the garage.

Chief Jones estimated damage at $2,300. He said the garage and utility room in back of the garage were razed.

Although the living quarters were untouched by flames, smoke and steam damage would require a complete redecorating job to the interior, Chief Jones said.

Mrs. Donaldson said she was in the house alone writing a letter when she smelled smoke. She opened the door to the garage and was met by a wall of flame. Because of the intense heat she was unable to close the door, allowing the fire to spread to the other room.

Two units of the County Fire Department were called to the scene.

Economic Class Slated For Labor Unionists

"Economic Reasoning," a class specially designed for labor union members, will be offered this fall by the University of Utah Extension Division.

The class will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. beginning Oct. 2. It will meet in Room 238 of Orson Spencer Hall. Lectures will be given by U. of U. staff members.

A similar course, "Understanding Railway Labor Problems," will be taught Oct. 2 to Dec. 6 at Weber College in Ogden.

Leader Urges Program

Delegates Told Indians May Hold Vote Key

Tribal representatives of nearly 250,000 American Indians were told Monday night that Indians may hold the key to state, congressional or even national races in the forthcoming general election.

Voicing this prediction was Mrs. Helen L. Peterson, executive director, National Congress of American Indians.

Mrs. Peterson addressed the delegates during a special evening session of the 13th annual convention of the NCAI at the Newhouse Hotel. The five-day meet has attracted representatives of 60 Indian tribes in the United States and Alaska.

"Indians hold the balance of voting power in many areas of the country," Mrs. Peterson said.

She said these areas are Montana, South Dakota, Arizona, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma and possibly California, Washington and Oregon.

Urges 3-Point Plan

The national Indian leader urged members of the nonpartisan NCAI to work towards development of a 3-point program in the 1956 election.

She advised them to continue work on the Indian planks for both parties, to issue questionnaires and obtain firm commitments from candidates seeking election on their views on Indian issues. She urged the people of her race to register and vote. Mrs. Peterson is an Oglala Sioux from South Dakota.

She said that a program for obtaining candidate commitments is now under way in Arizona and New Mexico and is being started in South Dakota.

Test Case Reviewed

In the afternoon session, John S. Boyden, legal counsel for the Ute Indian tribe and Affiliated Ute Citizens, reviewed the test case of Preston Allen, a resident of the Uintah Indian Reservation who is "sueing for himself and other American Indians similarly situated."

Mr. Boyden said that to deny the Indians the right to vote is contradictory to the 15th amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

Mr. Allen has petitioned the Utah Supreme Court to rule whether Indians residing on reservations have a right to vote. The high tribunal set an Oct. 8 hearing on the case so a decision can be reached before the Nov. 6 general election.

The convention was launched Monday to the slow beat of an Indian war drum. The colorfully bedecked tribal delegates, some attired in brilliant native dress, filed slowly into the Gold Ballroom of Newhouse Hotel.

An address by Rep. Lee Metcalf of Montana during the annual banquet will climax the five-day gathering Thursday evening.

KEARNS TIPPER WINS $10 FOR ACCOUNT OF TRAGEDY

Winner of the big $10 prize in the Newstip Contest this week is H. N. Russell, 5527 S. 4270 West, Kearns.

He was first to telephone the News with the tragic story of a Salt Lake father who ran over his 1½-year-old daughter as he drove into his driveway with a new car.

Consolation prizes of $2 each will be sent to Norman Taylor, 1060 American Beauty Dr., for his tip on a hunter shooting through a plate glass window at a stuffed deer in Montgomery Ward window, and to an anonymous tipster for information about a 9-year-old girl being critically burned.

Newstips phoned in by readers are judged regularly, with top stories winning cash prizes. The "News" also is interested in on-the-spot camera shots. If the picture is suitable for publication, the city editor will pay cash for it.

Remember, the fast call is usually the winning call. If you see or hear of anything you think is newsworthy, call Empire 4-2581 and ask for the City Desk. You may be a winner.

Thieves Work For S.L. Loot

Burglars almost earned the small amount of cash they got from a juke box in the Temple Cafe and Pharmacy, 102-104 N. Main, Monday night.

They used a butcher knife, meat cleaver and table knife to force it open.

However, they made up for it by taking $70 worth of merchandise—two electric shavers and two traveling alarm clocks—from the pharmacy.

S.L. Catholics Hold Ground Rites On School

Groundbreaking rites were held Monday afternoon for a new Catholic Church parochial school at Redondo Ave. and Nevada St.

The new school will be a memorial to J. E. Cosgriff, business and community leader who died in 1938. The school will be next door to St. Ambrose Catholic Church, 23rd East and Redondo Ave.

Funds for the new school have been provided by the Cosgriff family. Participating in the groundbreaking were members of the family, the Most Rev. Duane G. Hunt, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Salt Lake City, the Most Rev. Joseph Lennox Federal, auxiliary bishop, and the Rev. Valmore C. Marceau, pastor of St. Ambrose.

The school will cost approximately $400,000 and will house eight grades. A convent to house 10 nuns to staff the school will be built in connection with the school.

IN NEW FILM—Jerry Paris, Leigh Snowden and Jock Mahoney in "I've Lived Before," opening today at the Gem Theater and Redwood and Woodland Drive-ins.

U-I Wins Race On Film With 'Bridey' Theme

First of a new series of films on reincarnation, "I've Lived Before" opens today at the Gem Theater and Redwood and Woodland drive-ins.

The movie has been made by Universal-International Pictures, which is releasing it ahead of Paramount's forthcoming "Bridey Murphy."

"I've Lived Before" stars Ann Harding, Jock Mahoney, Leigh Snowden.

Miss Harding appears as an aging spinster who becomes convinced that the soul of the young flyer to whom she was engaged when he was killed in World War I lives on in another young man.
